CERTIFICATE

This is to certify that Assoc. Prof. Klaudia Bednárová-Gibová, PhD. has been invited by the Department of English, Faculty of Philology and Pedagogy of the Kazimierz Pułaski University of Arts and Humanities in Radom.

On October 15-19, 2018 she gave a series of twenty-four agreed lectures themed under "English Dialects in a Historical Perspective and their Intralingual Translation" for 2nd and 3rd year BA cycle students majoring in English studies and translation programmes. The series of lectures took under the auspices of the project POWER 03.05.00-00-00Z105/17 and required an intensive number of contact lessons.

Assoc. Prof. Klaudia Bednárová-Gibová, PhD. delivered a series of inspirational lectures in which she demonstrated her expertise both as a distinguished linguist and translation studies scholar. She successfully managed to broaden students' horizons of knowledge in the selected thematic areas with a special focus on Old English and Middle English dialects, sorts of Englishes during the English Renaissance, Shakespearean English and present-day varieties of World Englishes with interspersed translation problems.

We recommend Assoc. Prof. K. Bednárová-Gibová, PhD. as a keen expert whose visit to our university was most worthwhile. We look forward to further cooperation in terms of guest lecturing in the future.
