

Creation of an original textbook and educational texts for the compulsory subject of protection life and health

Project no. KEGA 026PU-4/2021

Annotation

The project is aimed at creating original textbooks and teaching texts that focus on issues addressed in cross-curricular teaching as well as life and health courses. The issue is compulsorily taught in secondary schools and is implemented through the subjects of the national curriculum in the form of exercises and courses. In the past, the curriculum was part of the protection of man and nature. Nowadays, there are no teaching texts or textbooks that address the issue and there are situations where secondary school management is unclear about what the content of the various topics recommended by the State Institute of Education should be. The solution is to be the textbook mentioned above and the teaching texts for secondary schools on the protection of life and health that will be produced as a result of this project.

Key words: civil protection, learning competences, learning resources, health, life