COURSE DESCRIPTION

University: University of Prešov
Faculty/university workplace: Faculty of Arts
Code: 1IHI/EPKOD/22	Course title: Epigraphy and codicology
Type, scope and method of educational activity: 2 lectures per week /1seminar per week Scope of educational activity: 26/13 per semester Method of educational activity: presential
Number of credits: 3 Student workload: 90 hrs = 19,5 hrs/70,5 hrs
Recommended semester: 1 st
Study grade: 2 nd
Prerequisite courses: None
Conditions for passing the course: The course is completed by the exam. The student is required to systematically prepare for and actively participate at the seminars. During the semester each student works continuously – reads selected texts, makes a transcript of text, analyses, describes and interprets texts. The student hands in a seminar work on the selected topic of the Latin codicology and epigraphy (field probe, own research). The final assessment includes evaluation of the student's continuous work, seminar works and oral or written examination (to be chosen; both forms of examination test theoretical knowledge and practical skills of a student). The student is allowed to miss two seminars during the semester. For any further absence (justified by the serious reasons) at the seminar, the student must elaborate a special written task (for example transcription) upon the agreement with the lecturer.
Learning outcomes: The student can: acquire basic knowledge about development of the world and Slovak epigraphy and codicology, an overview of history, state of research and current trends in development of the auxiliary sciences of history master professional terminology, acquire knowledge about methodology of work, by applying scientific analysis and critique, characterize and describe individual fonts used in the field of Latin codicology and epigraphy, identify and rewrite abbreviation system acquire practical skills when reading, processing and analysing epigraphs, (typology by content, placement, type of carriers, field probe, catalogue record, etc.) acquire practical skills in reading samples of selected monuments in the field of codicology, their description and processing master fundamentals of valid transcription and editorial rules, make a transcript of texts of Slovak, Hungarian or European provenance preserved in Latin language and national languages - present partial results of research, processing of given source base (codes, epigraphs) in the seminal paper, have a discussion on the topic and justify its preparation in the present form

Course content:

History, subject, methodology and terminology of epigraphy and codicology. Selected issues of epigraphy. Development of epigraphic Latin script. Fundamentals of scientific analysis of epigraphic monuments. Processing of epigraphic texts (historical epigraphs), definition, terminology, typology of epigraphs and making techniques, script, description. Book codes, fragments of codes, book font. Ancient, medieval and early modern codes, modern scientific description – external and internal features (practical probe, methodology of code description). Categories of medieval manuscripts by content. Overview of the history of the book culture – elaboration of codes, manuscript collections, libraries and scriptoria up to the dominant position of the book printing. Latin abbreviation system, numbers, punctuation. Get familiarised with basic rules of transcription and editing (publishing) of sources. Professional excursion (archive, library, monuments board).
