The content of the field of the habilitation and the inauguration proceedings

Name of the field of habilitation and inauguration proceeding: Foreign Languages and Cultures

Field of habilitation and inauguration proceedings: Foreign Languages and Cultures
Content of habilitation and inauguration proceedings covers the field of philology which is defined by foreign languages and the respective lingua-cultures and includes research areas which correspond to the specializations of the persons responsible for its quality.

Definition of the field of the habilitation and inauguration procedure

The content of the study of the habilitation and inauguration proceedings is closely related to the core knowledge of the field of study of philology in that it is linked to:

1. the structure and historical development of English, French, German and Russian languages, their social status and their functioning in interpersonal communication and in the wider social, cultural and pragmatic contexts of the relevant lingua-cultures;
2. the diachronic and synchronous relations and connections between the given languages and their lingua-cultures;
3. the history and theories of relevant literatures and literary methodologies.
